

Lewis To Stand Trial Wednesday For Contempt

Washington, Nov. 25 (P) — John L. Lewis today was ordered to stand trial Wednesday on charges of contempt of court in the soft coal strike.

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough directed the trial after ruling that Lewis had not purged himself of contempt charges on which he was cited November 21. Goldsborough overrode objections of counsel for the United Mine Workers and their boss that his court lacked jurisdiction.

While Lewis sat silent in a jammed court room, UMW Counsel Welly K. Hopkins argued that Goldsborough lacked jurisdiction both to issue the order requiring Lewis to rescind his no-contract notice to the government which set off the coal shutdown and to issue the contempt citation which followed.

Union Sought Delay

Then Hopkins announced that Lewis and the union had taken no action to comply with the court's order that the no-contract notice be withdrawn and were ready to go to a trial which might result in punishment of the union chief if convicted of contempt.

Hopkins attempted, however, to delay the trial date. He said the union has had no opportunity to read the government's argument. A bulky brief was presented at the start of the session by Assistant Attorney General John F. Sonnett.

Hopkins declared also that some union counsel were out of town and would not be ready.

Sonnett Objects

Sonnett arose abruptly from the government counsel table and told Goldsborough the government would object to any delay in view of the strike emergency. Goldsborough affirmed the Wednesday date and directed both sides to be on hand in the same courtroom at 10:00 a. m. (EST) two days hence, declared the matter concluded for the day, and recessed his court.

Contrary to the government's position, Hopkins argued that Lewis position to Secretary of Interior Krug terminating the UMW contract was "both legal and proper." He said also that neither Lewis nor the union had taken any action in compliance with the court's order to withdraw the cancellation notice.

Goldsborough hailed Lewis into court to answer a contempt citation for refusal to withdraw the notice, which signaled a nationwide strike in the soft coal fields.

Worley Spent $267 To Win Re-election

Representative Francis Worley, York Springs, spent $267.20 in his successful campaign for re-election at the recent election November 5, his expense statement, filed at the office of the county commissioners in the court house shows. His is the first account to be filed.

Largest single amount on the itemized statement filed by Representative Worley was a $100 contribution to the Adams county Republican committee. Other expenses were for printing, newspaper advertising, telephone and postage and travel expenses.

NEWMAN-ETTER WEDDING HELD

Miss Dorothy Jean Etter, daughter of Mrs. Helen Etter, Rouzerville, became the bride of Thomas Newman, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Newman, Fairfield, in a wedding ceremony performed Sunday morning at 9 o'clock in the Waynesboro Lutheran church by the bride's pastor, the Rev. Mr. Ritz.

There were no attendants. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the immediate families. The bride is a graduate of Catwaba college and is an instructor in the home economics department at Waynesboro Junior high school.

Mr. Newman graduated from Fairfield high school in 1937. He served in the army five years, one year of which was spent overseas. At present he is in partnership with his father in operating Newman's meat market, Fairfield.

Following a wedding trip to New York and Canada the couple will reside for the present with the bride's mother.

READING BUS SERVICE TAKES PLACE OF TRAIN

Passenger train service on the Gettysburg-Harrisburg railroad ended Saturday evening for the duration of the soft coal shortage but the Reading company instituted bus service today to accommodate the regular train riders.

The first bus left Gettysburg this morning at 5:45 a.m. with 18 stops scheduled on its trip to Harrisburg, covering most of the regular station stops the passenger train made. It was due in Harrisburg at 7:40 a.m.

This evening at 5:20 o'clock, the bus will begin a return trip that will bring it into Gettysburg at 7:15 p.m.

Change Freight Schedules

The regular bus stops are Van Dyke's crossroads instead of Goldenville station; Walter's garage for Table Rock; Lupp's restaurant for the Biglerville station; intersection 34 and 01019 for Guernsey; Aspers square; Highway 34 for Gardners; Idaville postoffice; Highway 21039 for Starners; Goodyear church; and nine stops in Cumberland county.

Changes in the Reading railroad freight schedule for the Gettysburg-Harrisburg branch were announced today by Henry W. Garvin, local agent.

With the cancellation of the two passenger runs the crew of Conductor Mahlon P. Hartzell is being called at 5 o'clock each morning, the same time as previously, to make up a freight to go to Rutherford. The freight will return in the afternoon.

To Use 2100's

The crew of Conductor Morris L. Fleagle is scheduled to take a 5 p.m. freight during the early returning sometime during the early hours of the next morning.

The local freight will leave at 7:45 o'clock each morning to shift and take cars as far as the Carlisle junction.

Present plans call for using 2100-type engines which will require no refueling or fire cleaning at Gettysburg.

The two passenger trains were discontinued by the company to save coal during the present emergency.

Thanksgiving Day Dance In Annex

Gettysburg's Halloween committee today announced a bonus from the recent celebration.

With money left over from the Halloween affair the committee will stage a dance for the general public Thanksgiving night in the Hotel Gettysburg annex, Carlisle street.

The orchestra for the affair will be Dick Peeser's combination, Harry E. Bender, chairman of the orchestra committee for the affair, announced today.

Designed to be a gift from the town to the young people of the community, the dance will also be open to all the older folks who wish to attend.

The free dance will begin at 8 o'clock on Thanksgiving night and last until 11.

LIBRARY ADDS MEMBERS; PLAN ANNUAL MEET

Additional life, group, adult and junior membership in the Adams County Free Library association for 1947 are being received daily at the library in response to mailed requests for membership renewals in preparation for a house-to-house membership campaign throughout the county.

Reports today from Miss Kathryn Oiler, librarian, stated that the current campaign has brought in a total of 526 memberships to date.

Most recent life memberships were subscribed by Attorney and Mrs. Donald P. McPherson, Jr., Carlisle street.

Since the last published report there have been 93 adult memberships at $1 each received in addition to 17 junior memberships, and 12 group memberships.

Miss Oiler also acknowledged two additional contributions to the special fund for children's books. Mr. and Mrs. McPherson gave $100 and the Gettysburg chapter of the Eastern Star contributed $10.

Meeting Tuesday Evening

The enrollment of county school boys and girls in the Library Reading club, with their membership contributions going into a fund to repay the library treasury for the bookmobile that serves every schoolhouse in the county monthly, is continuing and Miss Oiler announced today one additional school where the pupils have contributed "100 per cent" to the bookmobile fund. The new school on the list is Clear View school where Mrs. Kathryn Donohue is the teacher. The school will receive a special certificate and a picture of the bookmobile.

A full report on the progress of the membership drive, the bookmobile fund and the complete operation of the library since it opened last January will be given at the annual membership meeting in the court house Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Directors will be elected; there will be a talk by Miss Katherine Shorey, York Martin Memorial librarian and president of the Pennsylvania Library association, and there will be music by a male quartet from Gettysburg college.

Littlestown CHARGE FILED AFTER CRASH IN LITTLESTOWN

A charge of failing to stop at a thru traffic stop sign was lodged today against Huran E. Cartee, 6220 Limekiln pike, Philadelphia, as a result of a collision between the car driven by him and a car driven by Kenneth Arter, Hanover, R. D. 3, on the Littlestown square about 7 p.m. Sunday evening. The charge was laid by Chief of Police Leon H. Gage, Littlestown, before Justice of the Peace Howard G. Blocher, Littlestown.

Cartee, driving west from Hanover on East King street, is alleged to have failed to stop before entering the square and his car collided with Arter's car, which was entering the square travelling north. The left front fender and bumper of the Cartee car was damaged. The Cartee car had a broken light lens, a broken fender light, punctured radiator, and damaged fender and bumper. Both men were accompanied by their wives. Mrs. Arter suffered a bruised elbow. Otherwise, no one was injured.

Couple Observes Golden Wedding Anniversary Here

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Vance, of Orrtanna, R. D. 1, were guests of honor at a dinner tendered them Sunday afternoon at the Hotel Gettysburg by their two sons and daughter and other relatives upon the occasion of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The couple was married November 24, 1896 in Chester, Pa., by Mr. Vance's father, the late Rev. Dr. Joseph Vance, pastor of the Presbyterian church, at Chester.

Mr. Vance was born in Vincennes, Ind., and graduated from Washington and Jefferson, Washington, Pa., in the class of 1899. For many years he was an accountant and auditor working out of Philadelphia and later out of Colorado. About 30 years ago Mr. and Mrs. Vance purchased the summer home near Orrtanna where since that time they have spent their summers here and their winters in Washington, D. C., and elsewhere.

Captain In War

During the first world war Mr. Vance was commissioned a Captain and working under Colonel R. F. Proctor, built Camp Meade and the Curtis Bay Ordnance plant. He transferred to the Ordnance department and served as superintendent of maintenance for five years. In 1932 he retired and since that time he and Mrs. Vance have spent most of their time in Adams county, and part of their winters with their three children.

Mrs. Vance formerly Miss Elizabeth Hamilton, was born in Philadelphia, attended school in Chester and graduated from a business college. Her father was a prominent manufacturer in Chester.

The Vances have three children, John Hamilton Vance, an insurance broker in Washington, D. C.; Joseph F. Vance, a Buick distributor, in Charlottesville, Va.; and a daughter, Mrs. Grayson B. Mason, of Chevy Chase. Miss Miriam Vance, a sister of Mr. Vance, is a librarian in Washington.

LAUDS RECORD OF K. OF C. AT ANNIVERSARY

The work of the Knights of Columbus throughout its history was praised Sunday morning by the Rev. Dr. Thomas D. O'Conner, Emmitsburg, spiritual director of the Sisters of Charity, in a sermon given in connection with a solemn high mass sung in St. Francis Xavier Catholic church here.

The mass was part of the celebration of the golden anniversary of the Knights of Columbus in Pennsylvania held by the Gettysburg council No. 2539 here.

Speaking on "the power of unity," the Rev. Dr. O'Conner told of how the Knights of Columbus, when the Catholic schools were to be closed by law in Oregon, spent over $1,000,000 to carry the case through the Supreme court finally winning a verdict which permitted the private schools to stay open. The decision on the part of the Supreme court, Dr. O'Conner said, concluded that the child was the subject of the parents and not of the state and that the parents therefore had the right to educate a child either at public or private schools. The state law had forced all children to attend public school.

Install Officers

Termining the Knights of Columbus "the good right arm of the bishops" he compared the K of C to the "walls" of Sparta, relating the story of how Sparta, foremost city of Greece, was asked where its walls were that it might defend itself. The walls, it was explained, were its men. The Knights in the future, he concluded, will through their united strength be the protection of Christianity in the battle against paganism.

The Very Rev. F. X. Desmond, rector of Mount St. Mary's Seminary was the celebrant of the mass.

On Sunday evening officers were installed by the Gettysburg council after which a dinner was held at the Marine restaurant with Edgar P. Hamilton acting as toastmaster. Short talks were given by the Rev. Mark E. Stock, pastor of St. Francis Xavier church and by visiting Grand Knights and district deputies.

Sgt. Robert Bixler Home From Germany

Sgt. Robert M. Bixler, son of Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. B. E. Bixler arrived at Camp Kilmer, N. J., Sunday night from Germany, where he has been stationed with the army for several months. He talked to his parents by telephone shortly after his arrival.

Sgt. Bixler is serving his second enlistment. He was married in March, 1946, and left for overseas duty on April 4. He expects to be re-assigned to an army camp in this country.

Baby Boy Will Be Buried On Tuesday

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at Bethel church, near Deerfield, for Perry Arnold Hurley, seven-months-old son of Merle and Irene Kinde Hurley, Fairfield R. 1, who died Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. at the home of his parents.

Besides his father and mother, he leaves six brothers and sisters, Helen, Kenneth, Shirley, Phyllis, Harold and Ronald Hurley, all at home. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Skeleton remains of the top of the SCA building after firemen had extinguished the conflagration. The picture, taken from the roof of Old Dorm, shows the twisted wreckage of the steel beams that supported the roof. The walls and the huge pillars still stand although fire broke out in one of the pillars Sunday morning.

Family Dinner On 46th Wedding Day

Mr. and Mrs. William Coshun, Lincolnway east, will celebrate their 46th wedding anniversary Thursday. They were married by the late Dr. L. A. Mann. Mrs. Coshun was formerly Miss Rosa R. Epley, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Epley. Mr. Coshun is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Coshun.

The couple has five children, Mrs. Ray Shetter, Biglerville; Chester W. Cinnamon, O.; George E., Gettysburg; Miss Mildred R. Coshun and Walter E., at home.

College To Rebuild SCA Building; Loss Estimated At $60,000

Additional Fire Pictures Are Published On Pages 6 & 8

Insurance adjustors and college authorities inspected the charred and twisted ruins of the Student Christian Association building (Robert Weidensall hall) on the Gettysburg college campus Sunday and concluded that the loss by fire on Saturday will range between $50,000 and $60,000. It is covered by insurance. The building will be rebuilt.

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college, who was called home from the New York conference of the International Educational Reconstruction Commission, of which he is a member, issued the following statement on Sunday:

"I am profoundly grateful there was no loss of life or injury to anyone.

"The fire was all the more of a shock because of the warm affection with which this particular building is held. It was erected by the Woman's League of Gettysburg college.

Fully Covered by Insurance

"I spent most of yesterday (Sunday) with insurance company appraisers and inspectors. It was found that insurance carried by the college on the building will amply cover all replacement costs.

"The larger part of the valuable records stored in the building has been saved. Typewriters, mimeographs, furniture, paintings and the Gettysburg college financial campaign records were saved.

"The architect, Ralph Hamme, York, and the contractor, Carl Warner, Waynesboro, will be here today to discuss the removal of all debris. The college will proceed immediately with the restoration."

LIBRARY GROUP ORGANIZED AT M'SHERRYSTOWN

A permanent Adams county Free Library association committee for McSherrystown was organized at a meeting Friday night held in the elementary school at McSherrystown. Stanislaus Krichten was elected president.

The Rev. Fr. Cyril Alwein was selected as vice president of the committee and Mrs. Robert Burkee secretary-treasurer. Other members of the committee to serve are: Miss Gertrude Lilly, Mrs. Sally Klunk, Mrs. Catherine Smith, Miss Mae Kuhn, Mrs. Raymer Maust and Miss Mary E. Hemler.

The committee will endeavor to find a suitable location in McSherrystown for a library station which will be serviced by the county library bookmobile.

To Name Director

The committee will also nominate a person from the McSherrystown area to serve on the board of directors of the county library. Father Alwein was a member a year ago, but resigned. The entire committee plans to attend the annual meeting of the library association at the court house here Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Benson and Dr. Robert A. Bream attended the McSherrystown organization meeting. Mr. Benson is president of the library board.

AUTO VICTIM DIES SUNDAY

A 76-year-old man struck by an automobile on the Lincoln highway near New Oxford Friday night, died in the Hanover hospital Sunday at 4:30 a. m. He was identified as Frank J. Snyder, no fixed address.

Lester J. Sell, York county coroner, attributed death to a fractured skull and broken leg. He said he had not decided whether or not an inquest would be held.

Snyder's identity was established by state police of the Gettysburg sub-station with the aid of a ration book which was found in his clothing and through fingerprints.

It was learned that he was born in Pottsville, but state police said they could not determine his last address. Residents of Carlisle, Chambersburg and Harrisburg reported that a man answering that description had been seen recently on the roads in those neighborhoods, state police reported.

Snyder was walking carrying a bundle of clothing when hit by a car driven by Mrs. Sera Kanagy, of Gettysburg R. 3. He was taken to the Hanover hospital and died without regaining consciousness.

His body was being held at the Hanover hospital pending attempts of authorities to locate relatives.

Six Grandsons Are Pallbearers

Six grandsons were pallbearers at the funeral of Mrs. Samuel Cool, Emmitsburg, at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's church, Emmitsburg, William Rider, Oliver Cool, Robert Funk, Cletus, Allen and George Cool.

The Rev. Fr. Francis Stauble officiated at the services, and burial was in the church cemetery. Mrs. Cool died Thursday.

A special meeting of the Gettysburg fire company has been called for 7 o'clock Tuesday evening in the fire engine house.

BULLETS WILL LOSE 4 STARS BY GRADUATION

Four Gettysburg college grid-ders, only two of whom will seek action against Lebanon Valley here Thursday afternoon, will be lost to the Bullets next year via graduation.

Included will be Co-Captains Bill Hartman, guard, and Jim Lewis, tackle. Both were injured early in the season and have seen little action.

Leo Krupa, end, and Bob Hart, back, will also be lost due to graduation. Krupa has played a consistent game all year and is one of the ace pass receivers on the squad. Hart, a speedy ball totter, has been hampered by minor injuries.

The coming holiday attraction may be played before the largest crowd of the home season. Ticket sales have mounted rapidly in the last few days and a complete sell-out is expected on all reserved seats.

Lebanon Valley is confident of pulling a surprise against the Bream-men and promises to use a wide open attack. The Dutchmen have permitted but five touchdowns to be scored against them this season and feel certain they can keep the Bullets from touchdown territory.

FIRST DISTRICT HOLDS MEETING

The First District Sunday School Association met Friday evening at the YWCA building with the president, Cyrus Bucher, presiding.

Miss Helen Paxton secretary, read the minutes of the October meeting and Mrs. Frank Grider, treasurer, reported a balance of $126.64 in the treasury.

The Rev. Howard McCauley reported on the progress of the erection of church and Sunday school directories in public places and gave an estimate of $120 as the cost.

T. J. Winebrenner was asked to contact Miss Helen Hoffman, a delegate to the state Sabbath school convention, for a report at the next meeting.

The Rev. Mr. McCauley also reported on the Youth rallies in progress at Littlestown, Biglerville and Gettysburg. Mr. Bucher stressed the rallies so attractively that they will draw large attendances. Frank Dougherty gave a report on the conference of the State Federation of Bible classes held in Reading in October and the work being done in securing buses to pick up children to Sunday school.

A prayer by the Rev. Floyd A. Carroll concluded the meeting.

SOLDIER IS BURIED HERE

Military rites and interment took place in the National cemetery this morning at 11 o'clock for Pfc. John A. Simpson, of Cleveland, Ohio, who died November 16 at Lowry Field, Colo., from coronary occlusion.

The body was shipped here for burial inasmuch as the National cemetery is the closest national cemetery to Cleveland.

The Rev. Floyd A. Carroll, pastor of the Methodist church, officiated. Surviving the soldier are his mother, Mrs. Helen L. Simpson, Cleveland; four brothers and sisters, Robert L. Cleveland; S. Sgt. George, of the Air Corps, Springfield, Ohio; Mrs. Louise Besole and Douglas, both of Cleveland.

Pallbearers were Lawrence Oyler, George Ditchburn, Harry Bender and Fred Feiser.

A color guard was present from the American Legion while the firing squad of the local State Guard unit was in charge of Capt. C. Arthur Brame, M. Sgt. W. L. Baldwin, chief trumpeter of the Pennsylvania Brigade, Sons of Veterans Reserve, sounded taps.

EIGHT BIRTHS AT HOSPITAL

The stork was unusually busy at the Warner hospital during the last 48 hours during which eight births took place.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hankey, 201 South Washington street, announce the birth of a daughter this afternoon.

Daughters were born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Englebert, Gettysburg R. 4, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rice, Gardeners R. 2. A son was born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacPherson, Steinwehr avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Singley, Aspers R. 1, announce the birth of a daughter Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. David Genevan, Aspers, announce the birth of a son Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Piccola, 41 East Broadway, announce the birth of a son Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Myers, Gardeners R. 1, announce the birth of a daughter at the Carlisle hospital Friday.

DIMOUT BEGINS AT 6 P. M. TODAY

Gettysburg will return to conditions paralleling the war-time brownout beginning at 6 p. m. tonight, under orders designed to conserve diminishing soft coal supplies. Much of the dimout was in practice Sunday night.

The order will not affect the usual street lighting, but all outdoor display illumination, such as window lighting in stores, advertising signs and other outside lights, will be dark.

At the Majestic theatre, the marquee will be dark except for one 60-watt light. There will be two lights in the outer lobby, to conform to public safety requirements, but all other illumination will be discontinued.

The conservation of electric current aimed to save fuel has darkened the Metropolitan Edison company's large electric sign at its transformer station on the Lincoln highway east of the borough, since Friday night. This and other signs will stay dark.

Illumination signs in front of the Hotel Gettysburg, and other buildings in the town will also be dark tonight and for an indefinite period until resumption of work in the coal mines lifts the brownout.

HOSPITAL REPORT

John Curtis Harner, Littlestown, and Nancy Myers, Gettysburg R. 2, were operated upon at the Warner hospital this morning for the removal of their tonsils.

Women Pledge Aid

He said that there was not sufficient water pressure to break window glass in the burning building.

The following communication from Mrs. C. W. Baker, Jr., of Duquesne, Pa., President of the Woman's General League of the college, was received by Dr. Hanson:

"The Woman's League of Gettysburg College is deeply distressed by the news that our gift to the Campus, Weidensall Hall, was destroyed by fire. We are grateful, however, that there was no loss of life. Material losses can and will be replaced."

"The Woman's League stands in readiness to assist the authorities of the college in their plans for the construction of an adequate S.C.A. Building for Gettysburg College."

On Saturday The Times reported that the loss was estimated at $100,000. This figure was given by a college official who hastily estimated the damage during the fire.

Luther B. Smiths Mark Anniversary

In observance of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Luther B. Smith received over 40 relatives and close friends at "open house" at their home on Hanover street, Friday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock. They were the recipients of numerous gifts of silver.

The home was decorated with floral tributes of yellow chrysanthemums and pompons in various hues. A four-tiered wedding cake wreathed with yellow baby chrysanthemums formed the centerpiece of the dining room table. The cake was flanked with tall white tapers in silver candelabra.

The event was arranged by the family as a pleasant surprise for the couple. During the day they also received a shower of cards and dimes.

CANNERS DROP FINAL CONTEST TO CAMP HILL

Biglerville high school closed its most disastrous football season in Saturday afternoon when it dropped a 21-7 decision to Camp Hill in the Cannery field.

The defeat was the ninth of the season for Coach Haas' lads who failed to win a game.

Approximately 1,200 fans turned out for the tilt which was played as a benefit for Dick Bucher, Biglerville back, who suffered a severe leg injury in the Lower Paxton one several weeks ago. Bucher is confined to the Warner hospital.

Camp Hill went out in front in the first quarter. The victors tallied a few early when Clark Heller, attempting to punt from behind his line, was tackled. Later in the game period Snyder plunged over a six pointer.

Butler scored touchdowns for Camp Hill in the second and third periods, with the extra point in the second quarter coming on a pass to Snyder.

Biglerville, which was a much improved club, fought back and scored the last period when Marty Heller hit pay dirt. Pitzer converted on placement.

Score by Periods:
Camp Hill 8 7 6 0-21
Biglerville 0 0 0 7-7
Touchdowns—Snyder, Butler, 2; Heller, Safety, C. Heller, Points—Pitzer (goal kick) Pitzer; Forward passes, Snyder, Referee: Linger; Umpire, Yemzon; Head man, Pitzer.

CALIFORNIA AND THIEL UNBEATEN

By HERB ALTSCHULL

(Associated Press Sports Writer)
Muhlenberg found Delaware just like too tough and tumbled from the ranks of the unbeaten in Pennsylvania over the weekend leaving Thiel and California Teachers' unblemished records.
The Mules bowed 20-12 and joined in State in the Keystone State house. The Nittany Lions ran to their old jinx at Pittsburgh and lost to the Panthers 14-7.
California's whopping 61-6 victory over Lock Haven Thursday put the Mules in first place in Pennsylvania point getting with a total of 274, three more than the mark compiled by Muhlenberg. Only Pennsylvania had an outside chance of reaching that mark. The Quakers, who now have 239 points, must score 35 points against Pennell Thursday to win the total spring crown.

Best Defensive Mark
Thiel, which finished its season defeated two weeks ago, has the best defensive mark in the state, having restricted seven foes to 20 points. The unbeatable Californians are second in this department, having held nine opponents to 27 points.
The only other Keystone State team to finish its season undefeated was Mansfield Teachers, who in eight and tied one, a 0-0 affair against Bloomsburg Teachers.

In other Pennsylvania games over the week-end, Temple bowed to Holy Cross, 12-7, hapless Carnegie Tech tied its season scoreless losing to City 20-0. Lafayette defeated high 13-0. Bucknell lost to Rutgers, 20-0. P.M.C. won its first game, defeating Albright 6-0. Swarthmore defeated past Haverford 13-12. West Chester Teachers overhauled Wagner, 32-0. Dickinson pasted Allegheny 13-6 and Scranton lost to Gary 12-0.
Only three more regular season tests remain in Pennsylvania, all Thanksgiving Day. Penn Enterprise, Cornell, Ursinus plays at Franklin and Marshall and Lebanon Valley plays at Gettysburg.

Mountaineers Lose 46-7 To Terror 11

led by the fine all-around work Art O'Keefe and Joe Gianelli, stern Maryland college swamped Mount St. Mary's 46-7 in a game played Saturday afternoon at Westminster.

The Terrorists scored in every quarter and completely outclassed the Mountaineers.

He setback was the fifth of the season in as many games for Mount St. Mary's and marked the close of campaign for each team.

Rockets Set Mark For Goals Allowed

(By The Associated Press)
The hapless Philadelphia Rockets of the American Hockey league are continuing on their way towards establishing a circuit record for the most goals allowed in a single season.

Winners of only one out of 18 games, the last place Eastern division Rockets have been scored on 133 times for an average of seven goals a game.

Should the Rockets maintain this average for their remaining 46 games, they will wind up allowing 322 goals, which is considerably above the loop mark of 272 established by Washington during the 1942-43 campaign.

The Rockets dropped their 16th game of the year last night, 7-1 to the Buffalo Bisons.

At New Haven, the Ramblers moved to within three points of the Eastern division pace-setting Hershey Bears by nosing out the Springfield Indians, 4-3.

In the only other game, the Providence Reds downed the St. Louis Flyers, 4-1.

GRID CAMPAIGN ENDS THURSDAY AND SATURDAY

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

New York, Nov. 25 (AP) — With the Rose Bowl filled and several major conference races settled, the college football teams which haven't quite had enough will pick up the loose ends of the 1946 season this week as promoters select the opponents for their post-season games.

The final week of the campaign will divide its grid fare between Thanksgiving Day and Saturday with the big four—Army, Notre Dame, Georgia and UCLA—risking their unbeaten records on the week-end date.

Georgia, which breezed past Chattanooga, 48-27, to run its perfect record to nine wins, will be invaded by Georgia Tech, a team that trampled Furman, 41-7, for its eighth triumph since dropping its opener to Tennessee.

Sugar Bowl Candidates

The winner probably will go to the Sugar Bowl and clinch a tie for the Southeastern Conference championship.

Tennessee, which squeaked past Kentucky, 7-0, to match Georgia's conference record of four wins and no losses, will be at Vanderbilt. Tennessee already has accepted a bid to the Orange Bowl.

UCLA, which won the Pacific Coast conference title and the right to be host team in the Rose Bowl by turning back Southern California, 13-6, winds up its regular season against invading Nebraska.

Southern Cal, meanwhile, will invade Notre Dame Saturday whose unbeaten but once-tied eleven swamped Tulane, 41-0.

Illinois won the Big Nine title and qualified to represent the east in the Rose Bowl by whipping Northwestern, 20-0.

Ohio State Slaughter
Other Big Nine finales last week saw Michigan slaughter Ohio State, 58-6, Indiana defeat Purdue, 34-20, and Minnesota clip Wisconsin, 6-0.

North Carolina, winner of the Southern conference title with a 22-7 triumph over Duke, closes out its season at Virginia Saturday and other teams in that loop argue over second place on Thursday.

Saturday's schedule in the Southeastern conference will find Mississippi State, 20-0 winner over Mississippi, at Alabama, which dropped a 13-7 decision to Boston college; Auburn, 21-13 victim of Clemson, at Florida, 37-6 loser to North Carolina State; and Tulane at Louisiana State.

Rice, still trying to share the Southwest conference title with Arkansas after trouncing Texas Christian, 13-0, entertains Baylor Saturday with Texas Christian playing at Southern Methodist, which blanked Baylor, 35-0.

Cornell vs. Penn
Oklahoma, assured of no worse than a tie for Big Six honors after beating Nebraska, 27-6, winds up at Oklahoma A. and M.

Thursday's top game in the East will send Cornell to Pennsylvania with the Ivy league title depending on the outcome. Cornell can win the championship by upsetting the Quakers. Otherwise it will go to Yale, which grabbed the Big Three title last week with a 27-14 triumph over Harvard, unless league officials decide to count the one tie on the Eli record as a half-game won and a half-game lost and figure the standings on a percentage basis.

Such a decision, still pending, would throw the title into a three-way deadlock if Penn whips Cornell as expected, with Yale, Harvard and Pennsylvania all owning .750 records. Another Turkey Day clash in the East will find Colgate at Brown.

SCHOOL TITLES ARE AT STAKE ON TURKEY DAY

By TOM SHRIVER

Harrisburg, Nov. 25 (AP) — Several scholastic grid titles in Pennsylvania will be at stake when traditional rivals clash on Eastern fields in the annual Thanksgiving Day games.

Most of the Western teams have already packed away the mole skins and a few scattered games are listed for tomorrow, but in the East the battles for supremacy are still engaging the attention of the coaches and thousands of enthusiastic fans.

When Lansford invades Coaldale the Southern division crown of the Eastern conference will hinge on the outcome of the struggle, with Lansford needing a victory to move past Nesquehoning, unbeaten in 17 consecutive conference starts and at present leading the division by a margin of .660 points.

City Championship
Scranton Central and Scranton Tech clash for the city championship while a victory for Central will probably move the Eagles ahead of Blakely for the Northern division crown. Blakely winds up with Carbondale in another important test.

Over in the Lehigh Valley two unbeaten teams, Northampton and Catasque, clash at Muhlenberg college field on Thursday morning with the league crown at stake. In the afternoon Allentown plays host to Bethlehem in one of the big games of the day, with the Canaries needing a victory to wind up an unbeaten season and retain all claim to the championship of what is left of the Big Fifteen.

The Wyoming Valley and Lackawanna Valley conference crowns will also be decided after traditional Thanksgiving Day frays, with new champions almost certain to be named in both circuits.

Hershey high, triumphant in ten straight games this year, has retained the championship of the South Penn conference, one of the few teams that repeated as a titleholder.

Championships Decided

Other championships already settled find the following titleholders crowned:

WPIAL, Class AA—New Kensington.
WPIAL, Class A—Springdale.
WPIAL, Class B—East Deer.
Mythical Big Eighteen—Sharpshooting.

Western Conference — Bellwood-Antis.
Susquehanna League — Bloomsburg.

Steelton has a chance to finish the season without a defeat, although the Steamrollers have been tied three times. The last test for Coach Toretto's club will come at Williamsport on Turkey Day. Pottsville, also unbeaten, closes the season at Reading.

Pottstown, unbeaten in nine starts, has a chance to set a record never before established by a Pottstown team, and that is an unbeaten season. The only obstacle to their goal is Downingtown, with the traditional clash at Downingtown on Thursday.

Other traditional games find John Harris at William Penn; West Hazleton at Hazleton; Easton at Phillipsburg, N. J.; and Shamokin at Mt. Carmel.

Moose Bowlers Win From Waynesboro

The Gettysburg Moose bowling team won two of its three games in a match with Waynesboro, leaders of the South Penn Bowling circuit, here Sunday afternoon.

Individual high scores went to Mike Tate and Walt Kaczowski with identical scores of 526. Tate was high man for a single game with 203. Ziegenfuss, of the Waynesboro team, a 700 ABC knegler, was third high for his team.

Next Sunday the York Moose will bowl here.

Game School Named For Ross Leffler

Brockway, Pa., Nov. 25 (AP) — The nearby school operated by the Pennsylvania Game commission to train game protectors will be known hereafter as the Ross L. Leffler school in honor of the commission's president who first conceived the idea of such an institution in 1932.

The new name was announced last night by R. Lamberton, commission vice president, at a meeting in Irwin of members of the state Fish and Game commission with members of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's southwest division.

Fibers varying from three-quarters inches to two inches long are found in different kinds of cotton.

Bing Crosby Going To Baseball Meet

Pittsburgh, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates' delegation to the annual baseball meetings Dec. 4 in Los Angeles will include radio actor Bing Crosby, one of the club's four new owners.

The meetings, first session of the major and minor league baseball leagues to be held on the west coast since 1926, will give Crosby his first glimpse of the business end of the sport.

BEARS CAPTURE WESTERN TITLE

By RALPH RODEN

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Chicago Bears are western division champions of the National football league for the eighth time in their long colorful career today.

The bruising Bears clinched the title yesterday at the Windy City by thrashing the Detroit Lions, 42-6 while the New York Giants moved a step closer towards gaining the Eastern Division crown by scoring a 7-0 triumph over the Pittsburgh Steelers at the polo grounds.

A total of 152,988 fans witnessed the five games around the circuit to increase the season's total for 46 games to 1,560,540 and establish a new loop attendance record.

Chicago, which will meet the Eastern Division winner for the league championship, December 15, received some unexpected help from the Chicago Cardinals who downed the Green Bay Packers, 24-6 and the Boston Yanks who clipped the defending champion Los Angeles Rams, 40-21. The Card and Yank victories eliminated what ever chance the Packers and Rams had to catch up to the Bears.

By losing, the Steelers yielded second place to the Washington Redskins who knocked the Philadelphia Eagles out of the running by scoring a 27-10 victory at Philadelphia.

SAW 1ST GAME 63 YEARS AGO

Bethlehem, Pa., Nov. 25 (AP)—The "peanut man," who 63 years ago watched 22 college gridgers wearing skull caps wallow in eight inches of mud at Lehigh met Lafayette, said today that the 1946 version of the longest unbroken football rivalry in the nation provided him with just as many thrills.

Seventy-six-year-old Harry Ruthhart was only 13 when he stood with 300 other spectators, oblivious of the rain, and watched Lafayette slosh to a 50-0 decision over his Lehigh university favorites. There was no mud last Saturday but Lafayette won again, 13-0.

"I can remember that first game as if it were the one played Saturday," said Harry, now Lehigh peanut concessionaire.

"The Davis brothers played in that one. Richard Harding Davis, the famous late journalist, and Charles. There were tin cans and rocks on the field, but then bumps and bruises were little enough to pay for the glory of playing in this wonderful new game," Ruthhart continued.

"Just as on Saturday, defeat couldn't mar perfection of the day," Ruthhart said. He had seen Lehigh play—and win, lose or draw that was enough satisfaction for this loyal grid fan.

Steel Corporation Cuts Operations

Pittsburgh, Nov. 25 (AP)—The Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, effecting its first curtailment in the current coal crisis, announced today a drop of its operating rate from 95 per cent of capacity to about 63 per cent.

The fourth largest steel producer idled three blast furnaces, seven open hearths, and two batteries of by-product coke ovens at its Pittsburgh and Aliquippa works. The firm also banked all rectangular coke ovens at the Aliquippa plant.

The company said its Otis works at Cleveland is not affected as it had more coal on hand and "may be able to keep going at its present rate for some time." A spokesman reported the firm is trying to spread the work as much as possible. He said a construction job in the Aliquippa open hearth department was "started ahead of time" to keep men working.

Food, Clothing Prices Go Higher

Pittsburgh, Nov. 25 (AP) — Retail prices for goods and services used by moderate income families rose 1.1 per cent here during the month ended Oct. 15, the Bureau of Labor statistics for the U.S. Department of Labor reported yesterday.

Higher prices for food and clothing accounted for most of the advance. The report put consumer prices at 149 per cent of the 1935-39 average, 14.6 per cent higher than a year ago.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 25 (AP)—An independent minor league baseball club owner claims the big league moguls "are attempting and practically succeeding in ruling—and ruining—the National association." . . . If that is true, the big leaguers should find it very easy to take full charge at next week's meeting. . . . All they'd have to do would be to vote down the restoration of the two per cent "tax" on player sales, which was dropped as a war measure. . . . That would leave the minor league governing body with no income but membership and protection and with a rapidly dwindling reserve fund. . . . Without cash, the association couldn't do much and might just as well move its headquarters to Cincinnati and become a satellite of the commissioner's office.

HINTS, NOT GUARANTEED

Soon after the football wolves began to howl after Michigan State's Charlie Bachman, Backfield Coach Johnnie Pingel flatly turned down an offer from a Lansing industrialist for a job at almost double his present pay. But we also hear that Johnny isn't too popular and that the Spartans really have their eyes on Arizona's Mike Casteel. . . . A "dark horse" among the possible successors to Andy Kerr at Colgate is William "Ki" Young, who quit coaching at Auburn, N. Y., high school after an unbeaten season to look after his insurance business. Young, a Colgate grad, is a close friend of Kerr.

LIGHTWEIGHT GO GRUDGE BATTLE

Philadelphia, Nov. 25 (AP)—Champion Bob Montgomery and Challenger Wes Mouzon wound up their training program today with each at his fistic peak and each predicting a knockout victory in tomorrow night's 15-round battle for the lightweight title (New York-Pennsylvania version).

Mouzon, who scored a surprising two-round knockout over the bobcat in a non-title brawl last August, was the oddsmakers' choice, rated at about 7 to 5 to repeat his victory.

Tension was mounting hourly in the camps of the contenders, both of whom regard the convention hall go as an opportunity to settle a personal score.

Trainer Confident

Gene Buffalo, trainer and co-manager of Mouzon, declared "We'll knock him out again—sure" and added with a snort that "Bob ain't got nuthin'. We'll prove it wasn't any fluke. New champion sure."

Montgomery, who has been an infame elections with the exception of the unanimous choice of Lou Gehrig? All but four of 226 baseball writers' ballots went to Ty. . . . Dick Schulz, the Cleveland pro basketball, also wields a nifty paintbrush and turned out some hand-painted "little brown jug" ties last summer in honor of the big horse race in his home town of Delaware, Ohio. . . . As a by-product of increasing the basketball seating capacity of the Indiana U. fieldhouse, the runners will have to work on a seven-lap track this winter.

Unconscious Men Drown In Upset Car

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 25 (AP)—While rescuers vainly tugged at jammed automobile doors, two men drowned in three feet of water in the Brandywine river.

A car carrying William H. Hill, 36, Port Penn, Del., and Harry J. Roache, 32, Elmhurst, Del., went through a wooden barrier on the crest of a river bank yesterday and plunged down a 12-foot embankment.

Deputy Coroner S. Everett Kelly said both men were knocked unconscious by the plunge.

Three witnesses ran to the spot, scrambled down the river bank and and—out in his long ring career, said nothing, but his trainer recalled that the bobcat once before fought what he considered a grudge battle and knocked out Ike Williams, now NBA lightweight list.

"He is like he was for Williams," said Dick Kain.

Montgomery At Best

Montgomery, said to scale around 136 pounds today, one over the required fight time weight, completed his 14 days of boxing with a session in which observers said he was punching and slam-banging as he had never done before.

The 27-year-old champion, regarded as a puncher rather than stylist, is expected to carry the fight from the start.

Mouzon, 20 and like Montgomery a Philadelphia negro, also is ready to wage an excessive fight.

With the scrap almost universally held a grudge battle, the 30,000-odd fans who may pay as much as $100,000 to witness Philadelphia's first title struggle in many years, are looking for an offensive, leather tossing battle which may end in a knockout in early rounds.

Triple Tragedy Murder-Suicide

McKeesport, Pa., Nov. 25 (AP) — Deaths of a millworker, his wife and their 19-month old son — found dead in their home Saturday night — were listed as murder and suicide by Police Lieutenant William F. Corcoran.

Dead were Lee Phar, 30, Mrs. Josephine Phar, and Lee, Jr. Phar had been killed by a gun shot while Mrs. Phar and the baby were killed by blows from a five-pound hammer.

Corcoran said that Phar had been in a highly nervous condition and his wife had threatened to leave him. The lieutenant expressed belief that the triple tragedy occurred Thursday night.

140 DESCENDANTS

Lancaster, Pa., Nov. 25 (AP)—Mrs. Sarah Stotzfus, 102-year-old Amish woman, died Saturday leaving 140 direct descendants, according to relatives. She is survived by five children, 26 grandchildren and 109 great-grandchildren.

An average year in the United States will see 303,400 bales of cotton used to make toweling.

tried to free the two unconscious men. But the metal of the car was twisted by the impact and the rescuers could not force the doors.

They summoned firemen who wrenched open the doors. The men were pronounced dead upon arrival at a hospital.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

Public School Notes: Owing to the presence of one or two cases of diphtheria in town, our School Board has taken extraordinary precaution against the spread of the disease. All the buildings have been thoroughly fumigated with sulphur under the direction of the Board of Health.

The primary schools have but two short sessions each day. One-half the pupils attending for a session of an hour and a half in the morning, the other half a session of equal length in the afternoon.

Wedding Bells: On Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, November 19, at her grandmother's in New Chester, Miss Minnie Taughinbaugh was united in marriage to Charles E. Deatrick, of Hunterstown. The ceremony was performed by her pastor, Rev. Ketter. After the ceremony a reception was given by the bride's grandmother.

Marriages: Furney-Kime.—Nov. 22, at Arendtsville, by Rev. D. T. Koser, Franklin J. H. Furney, of Cumberland township, to Miss Alverta J. Kime, of Franklin township. Carter-Biggs.—Nov. 26, in this place, by Rev. C. E. Hensley, Isaac W. Carter to Miss Ida A. Biggs.

Crall-Reigle.—Nov. 24, at Bigler-ville, by Rev. J. C. Weidner, Willis Crawl, of Bendersville, to Miss Mary E. Reigle, of Table Rock.

Noel-Laurence.—Nov. 24, at Onowago Chapel, by Rev. T. O'Leary, Joseph H. Noel to Miss Victoria M. Laurence, both of Mount-pleasant township.

Wedding Bells: The hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Way-bright, in Freedom township, was the scene of a pretty wedding on the 24th, the contracting parties being their daughter, Emma A. and Mr. W. Ernest Ritter, of Keysville, Maryland. The ceremony was per-formed by the Rev. W. G. Minnick, in the presence of a large number of guests. The ushers were Mr. Oliver Waybright and Mr. Walter W. Shoe-maker, of Harney, Md. The wedding march was rendered by Miss Carrie Sharets. After the ceremony a sumptuous wedding dinner was served. The happy couple are on an extended western tour.

Steam Laundry: R. R. Long has secured the services of J. T. Kerns, an expert laundryman from Belle-fonte, who is turning out first-class work.

Painful Accident: On Saturday Leo Bushman, a young son of Wm. Bushman, met with a distressing and painful accident, resulting in the loss of a portion of the thumb and two fingers of his left hand, brought about by the explosion of a dynamite cap. Drs. Scott and Stewart gave the necessary surgical attention.

Teachers' Institute: The 42nd Adams County Teachers' Institute convened on Monday afternoon in the Court Room with 190 teachers in attendance. The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. Dr. T. J. Barkley followed by an address of welcome by Cicero W. Stoner, Esq. Mr. Henry Gise responded to the address of welcome, which was followed by music under the direc-torship of Prof. C. M. Parker.

Our Brave Police: Last Saturday night the disorder in this place was again simply disgraceful, especially around Centre Square. Men and women were drunk, using vulgar and profane language with no policemen to interfere.

They seemed to have things their own way until Constable Wilson made his appearance and had five arrests to his credit, while our two noble and brave policemen made but one arrest.

We are informed that the police released all the prisoners that were put in the lock-up before morning, some being detained there only a few hours.

Local Miscellany: Applicants for post office are already turning up in all parts of the county. Gettys-

Today's Talk

ROBERT FROST

I have always looked upon Robert Frost as America's greatest poet. There is something about him that makes him impellingly native to the soil of this free land. His simplicity of expression, his humanness, his sincerity, so devoid of all sham, or pretense — his genuineness! These are fundamental with Robert Frost.

I recently met this fine human being, and his greatness was im-pressed upon me anew, and deeply so. It was a rare meeting, one I shall never forget. No pretense, just him-self all the time. Reading his fine things, from now on, will take on new lustre and understanding, as well as added interest.

So superbly simple is Robert Frost in many of his lines, that his thought appears sensational. This, in my humble opinion, is genius of the highest order. Yet there is a gentle, and unstudied humor to much of his finest writings. And he is that way when you meet him. He is a poet!

Honors have been lavishly heaped upon this modest poet, but he re-mains Robert Frost, friend and hu-man being. He is as wholesome as his beloved New England hills, though he was born in San Fran-cisco of New Hampshire parentage — his mother, however, being native Scotch. He spent a year at Dart-mouth college, and two years at Harvard, but the hills called him, and for five years he farmed in New Hampshire. Before this, however, he had determined to become a poet — but it took England, when he went — to give him first genuine recogni-tion when he had published his first two books, "A Boy's Will" and "North of Boston."

Then followed a series of books upon his return to the land he loved — the state of New Hamp-shire, though he has sort of woven himself into all of the New England states. You hardly know in which state you find yourself up there, anyway, they are all so New Eng-landishly American! Even Vermont claims him — but he belongs to all America, and the world.

Ernest Poole tells of a significant remark that Frost once made. He said, "I hear everything I write." That's the way you feel about Frost, as you read his poems. You don't think of verse, as you read him, you think of what is coming out of his heart. He plays upon the little every-day, simple, homely chords of hu-man happenings and things. He has always been one of the common folks. Nothing true escapes him.

I would like to talk more about Robert Frost, but if you read him, you will know him. My time is up!

HOSPITAL

In they come, as doctors' cases,
Dreading hours on beds of pain.
Out they go, with smiling faces,
Well and fit for life again.

Troops of visitors come bringing
Flowers to comfort and to cheer.
Soon or late, as time goes winging,
They, as patients, will appear.

Wives come in, their travail starting,
Leaving husbands in the hall.
Out they go, with smiles departing,
Happy with their babies small.

Death and birth and joy and sorrow,
Fear and hope are hosted here;
Pain today and peace tomorrow;
So it goes from year to year.

burg is also becoming quite inter-ested in the matter.

Doctor Tudor and family moved into their new house last week on Springs avenue.

Judge Swope will eat Thanks-giving dinner in his new house. Turkeys are very plentiful this year and the moderate price makes it possible for every family to en-joy one at Thanksgiving. There will be services in the Pres-byterian church on Thanksgiving Day at 10 a. m.

Foot Ball: The game of foot ball, played on the athletic grounds on Saturday between Chambersburg and Gettysburg, resulted in an easy victory for Gettysburg—58 to 0.

N. G. Wilson, Superintendent of the Public Highways, deserves the thanks of the citizens for the thorough manner in which he has cleaned up the streets and alleys, and repaired bridges and culverts. Mr. Wilson brings to the duties of his position intelligence and long experience.

Personal Mention: Messrs. How-ard Swope and Simon J. Butt, of Washington, D. C., are spending some time with friends here. They made the trip on wheels and were less than eight hours on the way. Herman Kappes, private in the United States Army, stationed at the Columbus Barracks, Ohio, is home on a two months' furlough, visiting his father, Mr. Charles Kappes.

The County Commissioners are at-tending the State Convention, held in Reading this week.

Miss Vallie Shank and Miss Lillian West, of Smithburg, Md., visited Mr. W. H. H. Wisotzki's over Sunday. Miss Mary Hittner, of Pottstown, is visiting Miss Anna McPherson.

LANDLORDS IN DALLAS STRIKE TO 'KILL' OPA

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 25 (P)—In this crowded Texas city, where classified columns daily plead the urgent need of housing, hundreds of rooms, apart-ments and residences are empty. Landlords are striking for abolition of the OPA.

Mrs. Frank Morris, 55-year-old Dallas clubwoman, president of the Statewide Landlords Incorporated and the local property owners and associates, is leading the militant drive against the government agency.

"This is a quiet strike," she said. "Mostly, there have been no evic-tions. When tenants move out, doors are locked and stay that way. At least 3,000 Dallas housing units now are being withheld. The landlords aren't fooling."

Tours Ghost Apartments
Mrs. Morris owns no rental prop-erty but feels rent control is "un-democratic, unconstitutional and is cheating homecoming veterans out of a place to live." Her only son, a radio operator, was lost in a B-17 raid over Germany.

"I am fighting the OPA," she ex-plaind, "because I want this coun-try to be worthy of its sacrifice." Wearing a fuchsia dress and pan-cake hat of similar hue, Mrs. Morris guided me on a tour that took in dozens of ghost apartments and houses—places marked by untended yards and drawn shades.

We called on Joe H. Blann, totally disabled by heart trouble as a re-sult of German shellfire in the first World War. He said he had sold a duplex and a triplex because of bur-densome controls and that a five-room rent-cottage would stay empty until "the government restores prop-erty to landlords."

Balks At Controls
He lay abed in his own unit of his otherwise empty apartment house which, until last March, accommo-dated 18 other tenants. Last Febru-ary he got into a price squabble with OPA and the agency obtained a $289 federal court judgment against him.

"We helped the girls who lived here to find other places," Mrs. Blann said. "Taxes, utilities and all other costs have gone up but the OPA limited us to $7 per week for each room. We wouldn't rent now for $20 a room. As long as the gov-ernment insists on ruining our busi-ness, there won't be any business to run."

Husky, bemedalled, Capt. John R. Lowrey is a 56-year-old overseas veteran of both World Wars. A flier, he was shot down eight times in the first war. In the last, he lost the sight of one eye. Lowrey owns or controls 102 apartments in Dallas. Sixty three now are vacant.

"They'll stay that way until this country is rid of rent control," Low-rey told me. "I'm not after higher rents. My complaint is that under OPA, tenants can destroy your prop-erty and you can't do anything about it. It's costing thousands of dollars a month to keep 63 apart-ments empty, but I want to do my share in killing the OPA."

BEER WAR LULL ENDED BY BOMB

Pittsburgh, Nov. 25 (P)—The ex-plosion of a powerful type of fuse-bomb shattered the Sabbath calm in suburban Brentwood yesterday and brought a sudden end to a week-end lull in the AFL-CIO jurisd-iction dispute over which union should represent a large group of brewery employees.

The bomb blast rocked the one-story distributing plant of Jack Ryan, shattering windows and doors and sending a freshet of beer flow-ing over the sidewalk and street. A parked truck inside the building was destroyed, Ryan said.

Postponement Sought
The explosion came a few hours after the AFL-Teamsters Union, party in the controversy over brew-ery workers, asked a week's post-ponement of their joint meeting with the CIO-Brewery Workers' union. The meeting was to have been held today. The meeting, with State Secretary of Labor Chesnut, was to have followed a similar session last week in Harrisburg.

Anthony J. Federoff, regional di-rector of the CIO, said of the bomb-ing.

Criticizes Police
"I am terribly disappointed to find our state police, our district attorney and our sheriff—with all their alleged record of efficiency and sleuth-ing ability in the various depart-ments—have to date made no arrests while a reign of terror runs ram-pant throughout the county."

Other bomb-throwing and brick-tossing incidents have occurred in the past few weeks. The AFL has clamped an embargo on beer handled by CIO workers who hold contracts with the brew-eries. Distributors and taprooms selling CIO-handled beer have been picketed during the jurisd-ictional strife.

RAIL OFFICIAL DIES

Philadelphia, Nov. 25 (P)—Clarence B. Heiserman, 84-year-old retired vice president and general counsel of the Pennsylvania railroad, died Saturday night. A native of Urbana, O., he served the railroad more than 30 years until his retirement in 1932.

AUTUMN BEST TIME TO PLANT HARDEST VINES

Vines hardy enough to survive a normal winter outdoors may be planted successfully in the fall. They have an advantage over spring-planted ones in that they are able to make good root growth and become well established be-fore freezing weather. In the spring they start into active growth immediately. Tender vines, of course, should be planted in the spring.

Most vegetables should be har-vested before arrival of freezing weather. Store squashes and pump-kins in a cool cellar. Pull carrots and beets intended for winter use and store them in peat moss or sand in a cool cellar. Close cutting of beet tops is not recommended, as they may breed. Store cabbages outdoors by placing heads down in trenches and covering them with leaves and soil.

Sow Annuals Early
Sow as soon as possible hardy annuals outdoors where they are to bloom. Those suited to fall sowing include calendula, candy-tuft, eschscholtzia, clarkia, cal-liopsis, godetia, larkspur, sweet sultan, annual chrysanthemum, sweet peas, sweet alyssum, portu-laca and Centaurea cyanus.

Mulch lily-of-the-valley beds with well rotted manure, peat moss or leafmold.

Prepare the beds for the new garden roses to be planted next month.

Set out bird-feeding stations. It is well to remember in apply-ing mulches for winter protection that the purpose of mulching is to keep the ground frozen and not to keep it from freezing.

Seasoned gardeners know that old and weathered roses are more satisfactory for the growing of house plants and bulbs than new pots.

There still is time to plant shrubs and trees. Place a handful of coal ashes over the crowns of delphinium plants to protect them against snails and slugs over the winter. Slugs and snails in general are harmful to plants. Their favorite winter refuge is under boards and logs. They can be destroyed now with hydrated lime.

Newly-planted trees and shrubs should be watered once every two weeks if it does not rain sufficiently up to the time of freezing.

Continue planting tulips, daffo-dils, hyacinths and other spring flowering bulbs.

CENTRAL PA. MAY ESCAPE DIMOUT RULE

Harrisburg, Nov. 25 (P)—Central Pennsylvania may escape a dimout, ordered for Pennsylvania and 20 other states, if federal authorities grant a request for exemption filed by the Pennsylvania Power and Light company.

President Charles E. Oakes said the request had been submitted to Civilian Production Administration officials at Washington after a sur-vey disclosed that the company had a six-month supply of anthracite on its stockpiles.

"As yet there has been no action in connection with our company's request for exemption," said Oakes yesterday in commenting on plans for a state-wide dimout effective today at 6 p. m.

Oakes said his company could furnish electricity to all of its sub-scribers for at least six months, due to the company's ability to obtain about 1,300,000 tons of anthracite that has been stored up as a reserve.

He further explained that as the bituminous situation moved toward its present crisis the power and light company "began supplying neighbor-ing bituminous-using electric com-panies with increasing quantities of electricity in order to conserve the fuel stocks of these companies."

Under the dimout regulations an-nounced by the Civilian Production Administration, and placed in effect in Pennsylvania by the Public Utility Commission, all display windows, interior showcases and billboards will be dimmed out beginning tonight.

Railroads Act

The dimout also includes air con-ditioning units, elevator service, and ornamental lighting, with many merchants already curtailing plans for special lighting during the Christmas holiday season in the event the present coal crisis is not settled within the next 30 days.

Railroads are also making plans to curtail service on all lines where soft coal is used, but the curtailed rail service is not expected to affect those lines that use Diesel engines, or where the electricity is supplid for their electric locomotives from power plants using anthracite.

REVIVING RURAL HANDICRAFTS
Automobiles and interlacing hard-surfaced highways have brought a vast and prosperous buying public to the farmer's doorstep. Shall he allow this potential army of pur-chasers to pass on and later buy their wares and foods from urban dealers? Or, can he build up the former but not lost art of rural handicraft? And by the way, what is meant by the expression—"rural handicraft?"

As early settlers moved westward from centers of trade and with their families took up homes in the iso-lated wilderness, they were of necessity compelled to build most of their own simple household and farm requirements—tools, baskets, buckets, brooms, rugs or carpets (if any), shoes, harness and other leather and pelt products, fabrics, ropes and even wearing apparel. The industrious housewife added soap to the long list of things each family made "at home." This is handicraft.

These abilities—"arts," if the des-ignation is more suitable,—are not lost. Thousands of persons today have the know-how. Stuart Chase, writing about the remarkable handi-crafts of the Aztec Indians in the hinterlands of Mexico, mentions an American who sought to revive the long-dead art of feather-painting. When he proposed this to these il-literate Indians and provided them with a stable outlet for the finished

BLOOMS AFTER SEVERE FROST
Cimicifuga simplex is a most un-usual hardy perennial in that it often blooms quite some time after the first severe frost has destroyed the beauty of all other hardy fall-flowering plants. It is an Asiatic species closely related to our native bugbane, Cimicifuga racemosa, but grows only two feet tall. The buds appear as little white pearls to open into fluffy little white balls at a time when only the Christmas rose is its companion in flower. It likes a rich, moderate-ly moist soil and half shade.

certifies the hand-madeness by a proper identifying label. This or-ganization may be merely a local group—Hilltop Craft—the Big Bend Brand—Happy Hollow Hand-Made—or any of scores more. When a satisfied customer buys an item he appreciates, any settled brand will thereafter do its own advertising. If the local Grange or Woman's club or Cooperative group is back of the idea, so much the better. The main goal is to manufacture and sell a reliable, genuine home-made handi-craft product under a brand name by which others may come to look at similar items.

There is a golden opportunity for reviving America's dormant handi-craft along the teeming highways of the 1940's. There will be bigger opportunities in the 1950's.

Chapter 30

In Gita's library Major Weston tapped his cigarette thoughtfully—the undercurrent of emotion and mystery intrigued him. Gita, motionless by the fireplace, Freya nearer the door lending eager interest with only half her mind and Dana pale and tense in spite of his steady voice. It was as if they were all trying to hide something, not only from him but from each other. He felt that the clear concise facts of Dana's story were divided from the unspoken emotional involvements; aware that the hidden drama was farther reaching in significance. That he could feel it so strongly overwhelmed him. Their personal emotions were really none of his business—the only logical answer for his intuition was that this was not Captain Dana, but Franz Steiner.

When Niel finished talking a great loneliness took hold of him. He knew what was in Major Weston's mind, because he had seen it in Freya's eyes long before he began his story. He felt himself drowning in loneliness because he hadn't even questioned her ability to recognize him from Franz. Gita, under the strain of the night's tragedy, was incapable of decision—she accepted his word for it, nothing less—nothing more.

Decisively Major Weston turned to Freya—

"Could you swear on an oath that this is Captain Dana and not Franz Steiner?" Her eyes widened. Niel could hear the swing of the pendulum clock above her head.

"No," she said breathlessly, "no I couldn't."

"Though he realized they expected him to defend himself he remained silent. He didn't care anymore what they thought—only if Stephanie knew him."

"Could you?" the Major asked Gita. Niel thought how beautiful were her eyes as she stood up.

"He," she said quietly, "is Captain Dana."

"How do you know?" Weston's question came sharply.

She smiled: "Conrad would not have allowed Franz to come here."

Niel looked at her as if the others were not there. He thought what happiness was possible for Conrad because of her understanding.

"You better come with me to Conrad," he said softly, "I think he needs you."

She nodded: "I'll come."

Before Weston could speak Niel decided: "I must go back to my brother's house." Those words sounded strange. He handed over the papers and Werfel's note book: "You better round up these friends of Von Beck before they get suspicious." A low whistle escaped the Major as he read the names. "And," went on Niel, "if you have any cigarettes to spare I need them." Suddenly Weston grinned and tossed him a package.

"I'll take a chance on you—but come to headquarters tomorrow."

On the way back Freya couldn't stop crying—the pent-up tears of seven years burst their restraints. Niel comforted her.

"Don't cry anymore, Freya. It's all over. Ernst will be home in a few days and you'll be happy again."

"I feel awful," she mourned, "not recognizing you."

"How could you when you were so sure I'd been shot?"

He wanted her to believe it, he wanted to believe it himself as an excuse for Stephanie. Near the house he felt that the years to come were already touching them and the shock of Franz's death mellowed into regret that he couldn't share with them all the things that time must bring. But there was only an aching emptiness when he thought of Stephanie. Time wasn't going to mold happiness for him the way it would for Gita and Conrad. If she failed to recognize him again it was the end.

It was a relief when Conrad greeted them in the hall. His calmness steadied Freya and his grateful eyes came back again and again to Gita's face. Some wordless understanding passed between them.

Niel wouldn't take off his greatcoat.

"I'll stay with Freya tonight," he said. Conrad gave him a searching look.

"What about Stephanie?"

But Niel turned away: "What's the use," he said miserably, "she didn't know the difference tonight."

Conrad demanded quietly: "Is that so important?"

"Yes!" His voice was harsh from suppression.

"I think it would be a good thing for her to see you."

"No... no," he said quickly, then he saw that Conrad knew his fear. As he fumbled in his pocket for the Major's cigarettes Conrad flashed a meaning look to Freya.

"Will you go downstairs and talk to Joseph before you leave?"

She understood: "Of course."

Niel watched Gita and Conrad go upstairs. He thought, when it's all over they will be together.

Feeling so certain of Conrad's happiness made his own seem impossible. Nervously he paced up and down the hall waiting for Freya, thinking of the things he could have said to Stephanie that afternoon in the woods.

He heard footsteps upstairs, his heart began to beat faster—surely she wasn't strong enough to get up—it must be Joseph.

"Franz, are you leaving now?" Illness seemed to have intensified the sweetness of her voice.

"Yes." His face was white as he walked to the newel post.

Suddenly she stopped, on her face was the same shock as when he had first seen her. He could almost see the sunshine shimmering around her as then, see it gleaming in her hair, retouch-ing her fragile features. Her long grey eyes widened, he stood watching her.

MAIN POINTS ARE INVOLVED IN COAL FIGHT

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Nov. 25 (AP)—Here are three main points in John L. Lewis' fight with the government today.

Does Lewis, or anyone, have to obey a federal judge's order? The theory is this: when he thinks it may be important to prevent unlawful injury or damage to some one, the judge can tell you to do something, or not to do it. You're supposed to obey, whether you think the judge is right or not.

Issuing the order. You get a chance to argue about it later. Lewis announced November 15 his contract with the government to the coal would end November 20, his meant a walkout.

The government told the judge Lewis had no right to cancel his contract and asked the judge to let him end it.

On November 18 the judge issued temporary order to Lewis not to do it. He said he'd hear arguments from Lewis and the government November 27 on Lewis' right to tear up his contract.

Did Judge Have Right? So between November 18, the date the order was issued, and November 27, when the arguments were to be heard, Lewis wasn't to end his contract.

Lewis ignored the order, let the contract die November 20. So the judge called him to court today to explain why he had disobeyed. But—2. Did the judge have any right to sue the order at all?

Federal judges—under the Norris-LaGuardia act of 1932—practically are forbidden to issue an order against a strike in a labor dispute. So labor leaders say the judge was acting contrary to that act in telling Lewis not to end his contract or, in effect, telling the miners not to walk out.

The government argues the Norris-LaGuardia act applies only to "private employers' disputes with unions but nowhere says the government cannot get such an order from a judge when it's having a labor dispute.

In this case, the government says, the miners' employers because they're running the mines under contract with Lewis since last May.

Contract Is Cited

3. But did Lewis have a right to tear up his contract? He says he does. He says either he or the government—can do it. The government says "no," but Lewis can't end it unless the government agrees. And the government doesn't agree.

The government, to prove that the contract must stand unchanged so long as the government wants it, points to the first paragraph of its contract with Lewis. That paragraph says:

"This agreement X X X covers for the period of government possession the terms and conditions of employment in respect to all mines in government possession."

But Lewis argues that under the old contracts he used to make with the mine owners either side—he or the owners—could end a contract after notifying the other of the intention to do so.

And, he argues, his contract with the government says he can do the same thing now—end it when he wants to—for his contract with the government says the terms of his old contracts still hold good.

Guild Strike Is Near Showdown

Camden, N. J., Nov. 25 (AP)—The TO-American newspaper guild strike against the Camden Courier-Post and Philadelphia Record headed towards a showdown today with NG President Milton Murray scheduled to meet with publisher J. David Stern.

At the same time, hearings were set for 32 pickets arrested in a demonstration Friday in which marchers shoved police against walls of the Camden plant. Thirty are charged with disorderly conduct and two with assault and battery and inciting to riot.

The Philadelphia and Camden newspapers have been published by executives since the strike started 10 days ago over guild demands for increased wages.

DIES SUDDENLY

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 25 (AP)—August C. Martin, 67, Associated Press teletype operator at the Wilkes-Barre Record, and a telegrapher for 45 years, died yesterday of a heart attack.

This is how the SCA building first looked Saturday morning when Gettysburg firemen opened their first stream on the top center windows. Only wisps of smoke were emerging at the time although the interior top floor was in flames. Other firemen were inside the building fighting the fire.

Firemen are shown climbing perilously up a ladder, dragging a water hose to combat the flames raging inside the upper floor of the SCA building. Practically all the roof, except the steel beams, had caved in when this picture was taken. This is a front view of the structure.

Another view of the front of the SCA building after the blaze had spread to the outside front top of the structure.

GREECE IS LAST OF BALKANS NOT "COMMUNIZED"

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The British-backed Greek government's fight to maintain the monarchy in the face of heavy Communist onslaughts from various directions has reached a pitch which threatens to raise barbed international questions—specifically for the Big Three and in general for the whole United Nations.

Sources close to Premier Tsaldaris said Saturday that he hoped to present personally to the U. N. Security Council complaints about the alleged violation of the Greek frontier along the Albanian-Yugoslav-Bulgarian borders.

Yesterday, however, Premier Tsaldaris, after conferring with the King of the Hellenes, said he didn't know when, where and if a Greek complaint of border violations would be lodged with the U. N. He added that this hinged on "developments in the course of evolution."

Don't Need Telescope

One wonders whether this means the Premier has been advised by England to go slow with complaints, because Europe already is running a fever. But that's merely speculation on my part—based on the undoubted fact that the Balkans are seething and that an outbreak of war there could precipitate another global conflict.

You don't need a telescope to see what is going on there. Greece is the last of the countries on the Balkan Peninsula not communized and under the control of Moscow. Greece's entire northern frontier lies up against Red territory—Albania, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria.

Romania came even more solidly into the Soviet ranks last week through her general election which was announced as having registered a Red majority.

Minister of War Dragoulis after visiting Northern Greece charged that the disorders in Macedonia and Western Thrace were "inspired and directed" by agents trained in Yugoslavia and moved into Greece by three routes: through Albania, directly through Yugoslavia, and into Thrace through the mountainous area "near our eastern frontier"—that is, from Bulgaria.

There you have the makings of a first-class Balkan war. As a matter of fact, if General Dragoulis has his information straight, the war already is under way to all intents.

The big question of course is this: what attitude would Russia and England adopt if Greece should become embroiled in war with her Sovietized neighbors on the north? It is conceivable that both great powers might announce a hands-off policy, knowing full well that if either of them made a hostile move the third World War would be under way.

Would Britain stand for that? It's safe to say the answer to this

ANTHRACITE MINES BUSY

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 25 (AP)—

Anthracite miners in Pennsylvania's hard coal fields returned to the pits today after 10,000 had staged a three-day holiday stoppage in sympathy with John L. Lewis' AFL bituminous diggers.

Leaders of the miners said they were unable to determine what question is being sought by the chancelleries of many nations. One thing seems very sure—that the Sovietized neighbors of Greece will gamble daringly in an effort to communize her.

might happen if Lewis and the United Mine Workers were "kicked around in Washington."

Meanwhile in Hazleton, where anthracite mines remained in full operation last week, delegates to a meeting of the upper provisional district 7 of the UMW's general mine committee termed the court-imposed injunction banning the soft coal strike "unAmerican."

The group also voted unanimous support of Lewis and the soft coal walkout.

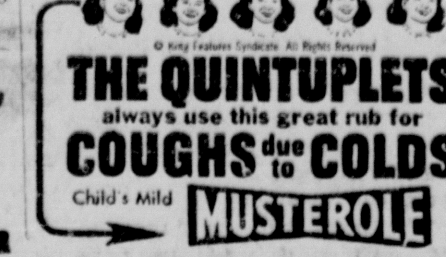

Anthracite miners at many pits in the Wyoming valley walked out last Thursday over what a leader of the mine workers said was a report that Lewis had been jailed. The number of idle dwindled from about 10,000 to 5,000 before the week-end shut-down.

"BLESSING ON THE DAY I FOUND RHU-AID"—HER RHEUMATIC PAIN ENDS

One lady recently took RHU-AID three days and said afterward that she never would have believed such a "wonder medicine" existed. She says she couldn't raise her left arm more than a few inches. Rheumatic pains afflicted the muscles of her shoulder and arm. She could hardly move the fingers on her left hand. Now this lady's rheumatic pains are gone since she got RHU-AID and she says she can use her left arm as well as her right. In fact, she says she simply blesses the day she got this medicine and she feels like an altogether different woman.

RHU-AID is the new liquid formula containing three valuable medicinal ingredients. These Three Great Medicines, all blended into one, go right to the very cause of rheumatic and neuritic aches and pains. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get RHU-AID. Sold by all drug stores here in Gettysburg.

12 AMERICANS MOVED BY AIR FROM GLACIER

By REMBERT JAMES

Interlaken, Switzerland, Nov. 25 (AP)—Twelve Americans who survived five days on an Alpine glacier 12,000 feet above sea level were safe on a United States Army hospital train enroute to Vienna today, rescued from their plight by the same route they got into it—through the air. Swiss army officers in ski-equipped, three-place Fieseler Storch planes brought them and their baggage out yesterday in nine shuttle flights over the 10 miles between the airport at Meiringen, some 15 miles east of Interlaken, and their snowy perch on Gauli glacier.

The 12—an 11-year-old girl, four women, four army officers, two non-commissioned officers and a male civilian—had been in a sheltered hole in the glacier, 13 miles south-east of Interlaken since the crash landing last Tuesday of a U. S. Army C-53 Dakota transport plane enroute from Vienna to Pisa by way of Munich.

Plane Became Igloo

They had lived on box lunches for three days and, after those gave out, on candy bars doled out one a day each. They drank snow melted over fires of gasoline, oil and parts of the plane, and had slept on blankets and the transport seats and upholstery. Swiss mountain guides reported a three-foot snowfall had converted the cabin of the slightly damaged plane into a cozy "igloo" for them.

Not till Friday was the wreck located. Saturday 70 Swiss civilian and soldier mountain climbers in eight hours struggled from Meiringen out to the plane survivors, carrying litters.

Before the rescue party essayed the even more tortuous descent to safety, Maj. Pista Hitz and Capt. Victor Hug of the Swiss army landed their tiny planes on the glacier and began the rescue by air.

"Too Many Airplanes"

Taking turns and bringing in two survivors at a time they landed on the ice with ski runners and, back at the airport, dropped these to come in on wheels. They had perfect flying weather.

Staff Sergeant Wayne G. Folsom of Pottsville, Pa., the crew chief, was the only stretcher case among the 12. He had frostbite, a knee injury and foot bruises.

Mrs. Ralph Tate, Sr., and Capt. Ralph Tate, Jr., the transport's pilot, were met at the airport by Brig. Gen. Ralph Tate, Sr., deputy U. S. commander in Austria, who congratulated his son on a "remarkable job" in landing the plane safely and introduced him to President Karl Obelt of Switzerland. Mrs. Tate said she felt good but had "had too many airplanes."

Mrs. Ralph Snively of Surfside, Calif., was embraced by her husband, a brigadier general and air commander for U. S. forces in Austria.

Alice McMahon, pretty 11-year-old brunette, emerged from the rescue plane chewing gum and said, "I'm all right. I had a fine time." Her father, Col. William C. McMahon, of Buffalo, N. Y., retiring chief of staff of U. S. forces in Austria, and mother also were rescued. Others brought to safety were

Brig. Gen. Loyal M. Haynes, of Le Mars, Ia., head of the advisory board of U. S. forces in Austria; his wife, formerly of Council Bluffs, Ia.; Second Lt. Irving Mathews of Richmond, Va. co-pilot; Sgt. Louis Hill, 36, of Portales, N. M., the radio operator, and George Harvey of Iron Mountain, Mich., civilian petroleum officer for U. S. forces in Austria. Harvey's presence in the group was a surprise. He was not in the original passenger list released by the army in Vienna.

Gen. Haynes suffered nosebleed and frostbite, Sgt. Hill scratches and

Other Pictures Of The SCA Building Fire

Another action picture by Luther Hocker shows another section of the cornice of the SCA building tumbling to the ground. The picture was taken just before the flaming cornice piece landed on the steps of the building.

This Hocker picture shows firemen playing streams of water on the burning SCA building. This picture was taken shortly after the Gettysburg firemen had arrived to fight the flames Saturday morning.

Lewis To
them, respectfully deny the jurisdiction of this honorable court to issue a restraining order," Hopkins said of Goldsborough's order.
The union also challenges the court's right to order the contempt hearing, Hopkins added, and is prepared to let the case go to trial with an advisory jury.
Such a trial on Wednesday had been set by Goldsborough in the event Lewis failed to "purge" himself of the alleged contempt.
No Arguments Today
John Sonnett, chief government attorney, immediately offered to argue against the union's position, but Goldsborough cut him short.
"This complaint was filed by the sovereign power of society itself," the judge said.
"I don't think any thinking person wants to see anything happen to labor unions insofar as their raising their standards of living are concerned."
"The defendants say they have done nothing. That amounts to saying they did not obey the restraining order."
"But they say they did not have to obey the order because it was not legal. That's their position."
Courtroom Jammed
Hopkins then asked that the trial date be set later than Wednesday, pleading that the union only this morning had seen the government's argument. An adjournment should be ordered "in the public interest," Hopkins asserted.
Sonnett promptly objected, citing the urgency of the strike situation. A throng of 100 collected in the corridors an hour before the court room doors opened.
Justice Goldsborough convened the hearing at 9:58 A. M. (E.S.T.)

"No Cameras"
The small, walnut paneled courtroom was jammed to capacity.
Thirteen minutes earlier, Lewis and the seven union lawyers entered through the judge's door. The UMW chief spoke neither to court attaches nor to his attorneys.
At the counsel table, Lewis surveyed the crowd unsmilingly for a few minutes, then leaned forward and spoke to Welly K. Hopkins, chief UMW counsel, who was slated to make the union's opening statement.
When the government attorneys entered, there were not enough chairs to seat the six-man group, headed by John F. Sonnett, assistant attorney general. Deputy marshalls rustled up more chairs.
The bailiff called: "No cameras in the courtroom!" Immediately afterward Judge Goldsborough entered.
Government's Aim
Before the (10 A. M. E.S.T.) hearing, a high official told a reporter the government's primary aim is not to punish Lewis by a jail term, but to make a shatterproof showing that the strike of 400,000 of Lewis' United Mine Workers is illegal, and thus to persuade them back to the coal pits.
If this fails and if Lewis is found guilty of contempt of court, said one government attorney who had a hand in drafting the government's case, an appropriate penalty would be a "whopping fine against the union and a relatively lighter one against Lewis."
Should that develop, the question of penalty, however, would be one solely for Federal District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough who on last Monday issued an order directing Lewis to rescind his "termination"

Teachers' Strike
Closes City Schools

Minneapolis, Nov. 25 (AP)—A strike of union teachers closed St. Paul's public schools today a few hours after an eleventh hour offer of higher salaries had averted a similar walkout in Minneapolis.
Picket lines were established at each of St. Paul's 74 grade and high schools. A minimum of two pickets patrolled entrances at the smaller structures, three or more were on the line at the larger ones.
The temperature was at 3 above zero when picketing started at 7:30 a.m. The teachers, bundled in heavy winter clothing, stepped along gingerly. Reliefs were arranged at hourly intervals.
